

Jim Palmeri
Agitare Technologies, Inc.

As a seasoned Management Executive for more than 25 years, Jim has lead customer-focused organizations at the finest software and hardware companies including Microsoft, Oracle, Sun Microsystems, Adobe, and Kodak. With proven operational, financial and managerial leadership experience, Jim is well known for building new strategic capabilities and providing the tactical execution to help a company scale and achieve organizational excellence, business profitability and customer loyalty.

Jim currently holds a position as President and CEO at Agitare Technologies, Inc. Agitare Technologies is a boutique consulting firm and value added reseller that specializes in the areas of cloud computing, big data, disaster recovery and IT managed services. Jim's focus is on providing specialized services that help customer transform their technology assets into modern, data-driven, competitive solutions that increase the value of their business.

Jim holds a Masters degree in Electrical Engineering from Rochester Institute of Technology and a Bachelor's degree in Mechanical Engineering from State University College, Buffalo, NY.