

John T. Fitzharris, MD
Medical Director, Medical Oncology
Willamette Valley Cancer Institute

As practice president at Willamette Valley Cancer Institute, Dr. John Fitzharris tries to see the good in everyone and in every situation. “I believe in making the best of all situations, both good and bad,” he says. Empathetic, optimistic and motivated, Fitzharris gets great satisfaction from helping patients and their families during one of the most difficult times of their lives. He believes in personalized, targeted treatment that uses state-of-the-art technology to provide his patients the highest quality care.

Fitzharris is chair of the Lane Bloodworks Advisory Council and serves on the board of Bloodworks Northwest. Outside of work, he enjoys the outdoors with his wife and three children, including road and mountain biking, hiking and fishing.

Fitzharris earned his medical degree from the Saint Louis University School of Medicine and served his residency at the Oregon Health and Science University. His fellowship was at Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center, and he is board certified in Medical Oncology.